Ike, Van Fleet Hold Conference In White House

Topic May Have Been General's Disclosure Of Korea Shortages

WASHINGTON (P)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet spent an hour and 10 minutes with President Eisenhower today but declined to say whether they talked about his claim that ammunition has been seriously short in Korea.

The retiring former commander of the Eighth Army would say only that it was a "friendly, old-time chat."

Although there was speculation the conference would touch on the testimony the retired Eighth Army commander has given to congressional committees, White House Press Secretary James A. Hagerty said the visit had been scheduled since last Monday. That was before Van Fleet's testimony prompted two Senate committees to ask for investigations into the Korean supply situation.

Assures Senators
Secretary of Defense Wilson sought to quiet the furor late yesterday with assurances to senators that there is enough ammunition in the Far East Command to "counter any enemy attack in Korea."

Wilson wrote Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) that there will be no delay in clearing up the ammunition situation and "we will present the facts with utmost dispatch." Byrd had demanded an explanation of any shortages and punishment of any one responsible.

Wilson also wrote Chairman Sal-

Shifter Hits Car, Driver Not Injured

Considerable damage was caused to the right side of a car owned by William C. Filler of 496 Euclid St. at 11 a.m. Friday when it was struck by a locomotive shifter on the railroad siding at the intersection of Euclid St. and S. Broadway.

Mr. Filler told police that as he was stopped on S. Euclid St. prior to emerging onto S. Broadway, the shifter appeared from behind the Quaker City Foundry building on Broadway and struck his car.

Fred Wimer, General Delivery, Lisbon, reported to police that his car struck a telephone pole on E. State St. at 9:55 p.m. Friday when the auto skidded as he applied the brakes to avoid striking another car.

A car driven by George A. Paxson of 922 Arch St., traveling west on Perry St. went out of control at 7:22 a.m. Friday and struck a parked car owned by Joseph Bezzeri of RD 1, Salem as Paxson applied the brakes to avoid a collision with another auto. Considerable damage was caused to each auto.

George Miller of RD 1, Lisbon told police the left front fender of his car was damaged at 12:45 p.m. Friday when the door of a parked car was opened in front of his auto as he was driving on E. State St. The parked car was owned by Alvin E. Law of Rochester, Pa.

Two Injured When Automobile Upsets

Salem High School Basketball Coach John Cabas and three other Salem residents escaped possible serious injury when their car overturned on Route 62, three miles west of Alliance, Friday at 6:30 p.m.

The car, driven by Thomas Nedelka, of Newgarden St., overturned on its top after being sideswiped by another car.

Mr. Nedelka and Mrs. John Cabas suffered shoulder injuries and were to receive X-ray treatment today to determine the extent of the injuries. Cabas and Mrs. Nedelka were not hurt.

The four were on their way to attend the Canton district basketball tournament when the accident occurred. The car was damaged extensively.

U.N. Ponders Vishinsky Shift

Move Seen As Revenge On Molotov's Part

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (P)—U. N. delegates differed today whether the shift of Andrei Y. Vishinsky from Soviet minister to chief Russian U. N. delegate was a demotion or presaged a new and tougher Soviet line in the world organization.

The change was announced by the Kremlin yesterday as Vishinsky sailed for home. Associates said the tough-talking Moscow lawyer received no advance word of the shift that put Deputy Premier V. M. Molotov in the top Foreign Ministry spot. Vishinsky also was named a deputy foreign minister.

Vishinsky declined comment on the Russian government changes—including the selection of Georgi M. Malenkov to succeed Premier Stalin—when reporters reached him aboard the French liner Liberte, a few minutes before the ship left her New York pier.

Later The Associated Press placed a ship-to-shore call to Vishinsky but was informed that the former foreign minister "is not taking any calls and his secretary does not wish to be disturbed."

Some European delegates familiar with the Russians said Molotov finally has his revenge on the old-time prosecutor. They said Vishinsky was being stationed here to remove him from the Moscow scene.

Molotov—once tagged by Lenin as a top-rate filing clerk—customarily spoke disparagingly of Vishinsky as "just a lawyer." These delegates said Vishinsky, known as a protégé of L. P. Beria, head of the Soviet political police, helped engineer the ousting of Molotov as foreign minister on March 5, 1949, and that Molotov never forgot or forgave Vishinsky.

Vishinsky was Stalin's prosecuting purge—master in the great liquidation trials of 1936-37 and has often spoken against delegates

Cincinnati Councilman Embarrassed

CINCINNATI (P)—Cincinnati cops are supposed to keep the streets free of illegally parked cars for evening rush traffic.

So when they spotted an automobile Friday that was parked on a zone which forbade parking from 4 to 6 p. m., they naturally had it towed away.

Councilman Jesse D. Locker was the culprit. And he should know better. He is chairman of the City Council Traffic Committee.

He called City Manager W. R. Kellogg and got his car back, but not until Kellogg arranged to put up $8.50 (until Locker could repay him) for towing and storage charges.

Locker has a $3 parking ticket to reckon with, too.

News To Carry Two New Comics Monday

Beginning Monday The Salem News will introduce two popular comics to its readers—Dick Tracy, the famed plainclothes detective, and the Heart of Juliet Jones, a story of love and human conflict.

Most readers are familiar with Dick Tracy, who puts crime to rout in thrilling episodes. If you're not already a Dick Tracy fan, you can now follow the exciting comic strip daily in The Salem News.

In "The Heart of Juliet Jones" you'll meet an attractive young spinster in search of elusive happiness, and Juliet's young sister, Eve, who is typical of today's younger generation. Read both new comics commencing Monday.

some Soviet satellites might split away.

Specifically, Carlson said he thinks the U. S. should explore the possibility of a break between Red China and Russia, now that Stalin's influence has ended.

"Mao Tze-tung may have some ideas of his own about how China should be run and it is possible that he might become the Tito of Asia if he had some unofficial encouragement," Carlson said.

Carlson, not a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee but a close friend of President Eisenhower, said he was voicing only his personal views.

Few legislators saw much hope in the shift in Russian leaders which put Georgi Malenkov in Stalin's place as premier.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said there might be even more danger in Malenkov's holding the chairmanship of the Soviet Council of Ministers "because he doesn't know as much about the power of the Western world as Stalin did" and therefore might be more tempted toward war.

Although it was the general opinion in Congress that Malenkov had come out on top, many lawmakers believed there still will be a scramble for power in Russia.

And Sen. Hayden (D-Ariz.) said it was significant to him that L. P. Beria retains his directorship of the secret police. Hayden said the pattern of Communist rise to power always seems to be traced through the secret police.

Sidney Woman Ohio Mother Of The Year

CLEVELAND (P)—Ohio's mother of the year is Mrs. Ruby Clark Brown of Sidney, a 52-year-old Negro woman who did housework for other families to help put her children through school.

The Ohio American Mothers Committee of the Golden Rule Foundation picked her at a meeting here Friday to represent this state in the national contest.

Mrs. Brown, wife of George W. Brown, an employee of the Beck Motor Coach Co. in Sidney, had seven children, one of whom died in infancy. The others all graduated with honors from Sidney High School.

She first came to the attention of the foundation after two of her sons, Tom and Howard, wrote to the editor of the Sidney News and told of their difficulty in finding jobs after returning from military service. The letters started a race relations project in Sidney.

Mrs. Brown, a member of the Mount Vernon Baptist Church, has held offices in the missionary society there, organized two new mission groups for girls solicited funds for the Red Cross and was active in Sidney's football mothers organization.

Judge Stern With Boys Held In Thefts

LISBON — Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin handed out a series of penalties to two 17-year-old East Palestine youths charged with several county thefts at a hearing Friday at Lisbon.

Judge Tobin revoked the youths' driver licenses for a year, ordered them to transfer from the East Palestine High School to another county school by next week.

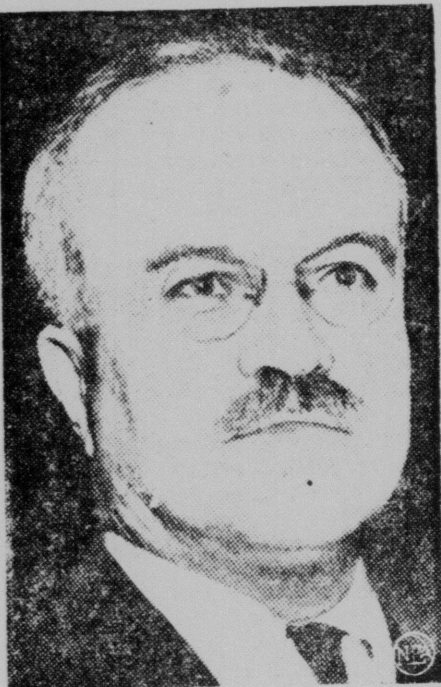

He also ordered the parents to enroll the youths at a military school by April.

The boys were arrested Feb. 20 by Deputy Sheriff Russell Van Fossan for the attempted burglary of a service station near East Palestine.

They also admitted several other burglaries in the East Palestine area.

Lausche 'Roads' Deal Attacked

Atomic Project Program Criticized

WASHINGTON (P)—Ohio's Gov. Frank J. Lausche and his state highway director have been criticized by Ohioans on Capitol Hill for making a "poor bargain" for the state to help pay for roads around the new atomic project in Pike County, O.

Rep. J. Harry McGregor, spokesman for Ohio Republican legislative leaders, said Lausche and Highway Director Samuel O. Linzell agreed to furnish nearly seven million dollars for roads needed to serve the Southern Ohio plant.

If the state helps finance construction, GOP congressmen argued, other badly needed projects in the state will be delayed. Ohio's Republican House delegation told the Atomic Energy Commission it believes the federal government should shoulder the entire burden.

McGregor, chairman of a House roads subcommittee, said Lausche and Linzell did a "diservice" to the people of Ohio by making a "deal" with officials in the Bureau of Public Roads to help pay the total estimated cost of nearly 25 million.

He said the AEC, though it paid the entire cost of roads on other A-projects, plans to stand on the agreement to pay only the major share of the cost of the roads.

Ohio GOP leaders met with Republican senators and congressmen Friday to discuss Ohio highway needs.

Soviet Union Readies Funeral For Dead Communist Dictator

MOSCOW (P)—The Soviet Union today readied the greatest funeral in its 37-year history for Joseph V. Stalin. The new government and the Communist party announced that his body, after rites Monday, would lie alongside Lenin's in Red Square until a great Pantheon—a new temple shrine of world communism—is built to receive them and other Red "immortals."

An official announcement of the party Central Committee and the government Council of Ministers, now headed by Georgi M. Malenkov as Stalin's successor, said the funeral would be held at noon Monday (4 a.m. EST), but gave no details of the form the rites would take.

Nor did it say whether any part would be taken by religious leaders, who have led public prayers

Stalin Set Stage For His Departure, Town Hall Told

By RALPH FRATILA

"I think there will be no upheaval in the Soviet Union—I think the Soviets will not go to war."

In this manner did Louis Fischer, world traveler, lecturer and acknowledged authority on Russia, answer the questions thrust upon the world by Stalin's death when Fischer appeared in the High School on the Town Hall program Friday night.

Scheduled to address the audience here on "U. S. In World Affairs," Mr. Fischer discarded his prepared subject in favor of the timely topic which he delivered.

Stalin, declared the speaker, was a very wise man. So wise, he said, that he prepared beforehand the course that his power would traverse after his death. In recent years, he took long vacations, letting his underlings taste authority—"get the feel of the wheel."

He allowed the battle for his succession to take place while he was still alive, so he could direct it to the end which he desired, Mr. Fischer said.

As a result Malenkov has assumed the mantle of dictatorship and Molotov has replaced Vishinsky as foreign minister, he declared.

Delving into the animosity that seethes among Russian bureaus, the speaker traced the friction that has always existed between the Russian Foreign Office and the Secret Police. The Secret Police, he said incessantly sought control over the Foreign Office—as it did in every other department in Russia. Litvinov and Molotov, when he was foreign minister, repulsed the Secret Police advances, but Vishinsky was a puppet and completely dominated by its insidious chief, Beria.

The Secret Police, he said, is a very powerful force in Russia and must be absolutely ruled by anyone seeking the complete control over Russia that Stalin held. Stalin several times purged that organization to keep it in hand, and Malenkov's first step was to follow that trend—in a more moderate fashion—by eliminating one of its friends and substituting an enemy.

The triangle destined to rule Russia.

Police Catch Speeder, Find 3 Run-aways

Two of the four Parkersburg, W. Va., youths held by police after Policeman Robert Kirchgessner arrested Arkie Royce Waldeck, 20, for speeding through the school zone on N. Lincoln Ave. Friday noon, were turned over to West Virginia authorities this morning where they are wanted on delinquency charges.

A 15-year-old girl with Waldeck was charged with delinquency and Waldeck with contributing to juvenile delinquency. The other two, a 16-year-old-boy and a 17-year-old girl, who were with Waldeck, are to be returned to their parents.

The four, who were enroute to Cleveland when Waldeck was arrested, left Parkersburg Tuesday after school let out and roamed Salem that night. Police learned Wednesday night they stayed at a motor court near Lisbon and Thursday night in another motor court.

Police Chief Nerr Gaunt questioned the 15-year-old girl while Waldeck was paying a $20 fine to Mayor Harry Vincent for speeding. She admitted her age and the group's activity for the past three days. Their detention followed and Parkersburg police were notified.

Highway Official Refutes Charge

Denies Taking 'Favors' For News Dispatches

COLUMBUS, O. (P)—The executive secretary of the Ohio Highway Department denied Friday a public relations firm working for the railroads paid some of his expenses on business trips he made to Washington and New York in 1951 and 1952.

Harold Cohen refuted implications made in a New York Federal Court that he was influenced by favors to write in news releases about tests on damage heavy trucks do to highways.

Cohen was a press agent for the Ohio Highway Department in 1951 and 1952, and was promoted to executive secretary last September.

The statements about Cohen were made in pre-trial hearings in the trucking industry's 250 million dollar anti-trust suit against the railroads. The truckers charge the railroads are conducting a propaganda campaign against their industry.

The suit also names as a defendant the Carl Byoir & Associates, Inc., public relations firm, which the truckers charge is handling the railroads' propaganda campaign.

Donald Stull, a Columbus representative of Byoir, had testified he paid Cohen's railroad fare to New York in 1951, and his hotel bill in Washington last year.

State Files Court Action Against Dairy

LISBON — The State of Ohio has filed a suit in common pleas court asking for an injunction against H. Roland Russell as operator of Russell's Dairy of Wellsville.

The state claims Russell has failed to file and refuses to file an application for renewal of a state license to operate his milk and cream business.

They have asked the court to compel the owner to apply for a license and to enjoin Russell from engaging in the milk and cream business and his operation of a dairy until the state law is complied with.

The action was filed by Prosecutor James L. MacDonald for H. S. Foust, director of agriculture.

Malenkov Rules; Top Personnel Are Juggled

Molotov Replaces Vishinsky As Head Of Foreign Ministry

MOSCOW (P)—Georgi M. Malenkov today led the Soviet Union and its wide dominions—officially—as successor to Joseph V. Stalin. His elevation was accompanied by a wholesale shakeup of top government personnel.

Selection of Stalin's 51-year-old protégé to be the new Russian prime minister was announced by the Kremlin last night. Long a close associate of the dead Communist chief, Malenkov had been considered his likeliest successor.

A government communique said the host of other changes—apparently aimed at streamlining the Soviet administration—were necessary to assure "uninterrupted and correct" leadership of the country and to prevent "any kind of disarray and panic" following Stalin's death.

Supreme Soviet To Meet

The communique also announced that the Supreme Soviet—the Soviet Union's Parliament—would meet in Moscow March 14 to consider the changes.

Among the most important switches were:

1. L. P. Beria, boss of the Soviet secret police and Russia's atomic energy program, named head of State Security Ministers. (He presumably also will retain his police and atomic duties.)

2. Deputy Premier V. M. Molotov returned to the post of foreign minister he held from 1939 to 1949. He replaced Andrei Vishinsky, who was appointed permanent Soviet representative to the United Nations in New York. Vishinsky had taken over the Foreign Ministry job from Molotov.

Bulganin Named Minister

3. Marshal Nikolai Bulganin, a member of Stalin's five-man inner war council during World War I, was named minister of the armed forces in place of Marshal A. M. Vasilevsky. The latter became a deputy minister.

4. Three deputy foreign ministers also were named—Vishinsky, Jacob Malik, who held the same position under Vishinsky and formerly was Russia's U. N. delegate, and Vasily Kuznetsov, formerly head of the Soviet trade union movement.

Beria, Molotov, Bulganin and Lazarus Kaganovich were all re-named deputy prime ministers. Since Beria's name was mentioned first, he will be the top deputy. With Malenkov these four form a new Presidium of the Council of Ministers that apparently will be a highly important government organ.

Marshal Klementy Voroshilov, formerly a vice premier, was chosen chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet, replacing Nikolai Shvernik. This post (largely an honorary one) is equivalent to the presidency of the Soviet Union.

Shvernik was made chairman of the All-Union Council of Trade

Home Of The Soul

A father reads a story to his son

"Now I saw in my dream that these two men went in at the gate, and lo, as they entered, they were transfigured, and they had raiment put on them that shone like gold. The streets also were paved with gold; and in them walked many men—I wished myself among them." So read 31-year-old Singer-Composer Philip Phillips to his small son.

"I wished myself among them," Phillips mused. He read the lines again. In that paragraph of John Bunyan's "Pilgrims Progress" lay the theme for a hymn. Phillips made no claim to being a poet, so he copied the lines and sent them to Poetess Ellen Huntington Gates, in New York, with the suggestion she write some verses he might set to music.

Born on a farm in Chautauque County, New York, in 1834, Philip Phillips began singing in public when he was 5 years old. At 16 he led a church choir. At 19 he taught music. At 21 he was publishing his own songs, going from house to house singing and selling his wares. When the Gospel Song made its debut, during the 1850s, Phillips took his melodeon to New York City and sang the gospel on street corners to any who would listen.

MORE THAN to any other individual, the Gospel Song owes its early popularity to Philip Phillips. Before he was 40, "The Singing Pilgrim"—as he became known—literally sang his way around the world. He introduced the Gospel Song and sold his song books all over America, Europe, Australia

I will sing you a song of that beautiful land,
The far-away home of the soul,
Where no storms ever beat on the glittering strand,
While the years of eternity roll.

Oh, that home of the soul! In my visions and dreams
Its bright, Jasper walls I can see,
Till I fancy but thinly veiled intervenes and Asia and blazed the way for such greats as Philip Bliss and Ira Sankey. As the "Singing Pilgrim," Phillips gave 4000 "song services" for charity alone and filled 100 engagements for the London Sunday School Convention. On Feb. 28, 1885, he sang Ellen Gates' "Your Mission" in the U. S. Senate chamber. Abraham Lincoln was so overcome, he requested Phillips to sing the hymn again. And, of his thousands of engagements, it is said that he never missed one.
Between the fair city and me.

When Phillips received the poem from Mrs. Gates, he took his son back on his knee and read again that part of Bunyan's classic where Christian and Hopeful enter the city of gold. The poetess had caught the sentiment exactly and, "with pencil in hand," Phillips turned to his organ and set the words to music.

THUS, IN 1865, was born one of the most widely used hymns of hope ever written. One minister alone states having used it at no less than 120 funeral services. And the grief-stricken Phillips himself wrote, "It was sung at the funeral of my own dear boy, who had sat on my knee when I wrote the tune."

On June 25, 1895, Ira Sankey went from his home in Brooklyn to Delaware, Ohio, to sing "Home of the Soul" as tribute to "The Singing Pilgrim," for, on that date, Philip Phillips went to "that beautiful land" where loved ones "meet one another again."

That unchangeable home is for you and for me,
Where Jesus of Nazareth stands;
The King of all kingdoms forever is He,
And He holdeth our crowns in His hands.

Oh, how sweet it will be in that beautiful land,
So free from all sorrow and pain,
With songs on our lips and with harps in our hands,
To meet one another again.

Be Alert To Stop Scalp Ringworm

"I have a little grandson" writes Mrs. C. D., "who has had ringworm of the scalp for four months. He has lost all his hair. What causes it and how do you get it?"

Ringworm of the scalp, or tinea capitis, is a fungus infection generally involving the root of the hair and that part of the hair which is close to the scalp. Sometimes there are scattered semi-bald patches on the back or sides of the head, but complete loss of hair is the exception. These patches are scaly and the infected hair has a dull luster and is often broken off rather short.

It is often necessary for the physician to use special equipment in order to make a diagnosis. A light which consists of ultraviolet rays filtered through a special type of glass is used and examination must be carried out in a darkened room. Under this special light the infected hair usually gives a bright glow.

Other tests, such as looking at the hairs or scrapings from the scalp, are sometimes made.

The treatment for ringworm is not easy, but in time is usually successful. The ointments containing chemicals which have worked on other types of fungus may not prove effective for this, so treatment may seem discouraging for a time. Some success has been reported with X-ray treatment.

When ringworm of the scalp is really epidemic in a community, an attempt should be made to find all of the cases by making a survey of school children and preschool children in families where an older child is found to be infected.

Children living in institutions are even more likely to be exposed than children in homes. Also, barbers can be helpful if they watch for any such condition of the scalp, and they should refrain from cutting the hair of a child having this infection.

This problem is of serious concern to skin specialists. Parents can help enormously by being on the lookout for any disease of the scalp and reporting it immediately, for it is most important to recognize its infectious nature and to stop it from spreading.

Ohio Ordnance Plant
May Become Prison

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bricker and Rep. Betts, Ohio Republicans, will introduce legislation to permit the government to give Ohio a 1,400-acre reservation at Marion, it was announced Friday.

The state plans to move prisoners from the Mansfield Reformatory to the Marion location, site of an old ordnance plant.

The government deeded the site to Ohio in 1948 and required that the state use it for schooling juvenile offenders.

Ohio was to pay $700,000 for the property over 25 years. So far, the government has waived $75,000 in payments.

The state Legislature has appropriated $625,000 to buy the area for use for more hardened prisoners.

The Bricker - Betts legislation would allow the property to go to the state at no cost and eliminate the requirement that it must be used for educational purposes.

Plans to offer the bills were announced at a joint meeting of Ohio state legislative Republican leaders and Ohio Republican congressmen.

State Sen. C. Stanley Mechem, majority leader in the Ohio Senate, said this legislation would free the $625,000 for Ohio schools.

Railroad Magnate
Dies In California

PASEDENA, Calif. (AP)—Death has ended the success story of William Martin Jeffers, 77, former president of the Union Pacific Railroad.

He died yesterday in a hotel of what an associate described as "complications of advanced age." He had been ill for two years.

The son of a railroad, Jeffers began his career as a call boy for the Union Pacific at 14. He became president of the road in 1937, when it had 65,000 employees. In taking the job Jeffers said his ambition had been realized and that it was "a greater thrill to become president of the Union Pacific than to have become president of the United States."

His administration was marked by many progressive advancements, including fast, low-fare trains, low-priced dining car meals and service by nurse-stewards.

Jeffers took great pride in maintaining close contact with the men in the ranks, and friends said he never was too busy to stop and talk over railroad problems with the workers. He continued to carry his card in the telegraphers' union after becoming an executive.

life for all the gold in Fort Knox." He feels a dictator is a freak offshoot of some kind, only rarely to be reckoned with. The truth is the human race has been afflicted through all time by dictators, large and small . . . It still is . . . It perhaps always will be.

The ordinary man can look around his own small world and count any number of seedling dictators . . . A spoiled child . . . A domineering wife . . . A browbeating husband . . . An overly stern schoolteacher . . . The little straw bosses of business and the ward bosses of politics . . . The petty tyrant bureaucrat . . . An officious cop . . . A brass-happy officer in the armed forces.

How do they differ from Stalin, Hitler, or Mussolini? . . . Only in degree . . . They lack the brains, energy or courage to extend their dominance . . . But they are linked to Stalin, Hitler and Napoleon by the same basic drive — love of power.

Most people like to love and be loved . . . To hate a little . . . To rule and be ruled . . . To have enough prestige to make them feel good — but not at the price of too much responsibility . . . And they find it difficult to believe anyone would want power for the sake of power alone.

But dictators, great or small, do . . . The ability to exercise pure naked power is to them food, wine, love and money . . . To gain power they will sacrifice on the altar of their ego all other human satisfactions of body and spirit.

All dictators, in homes, school-rooms or vast empires, also use the same excuse in their lust to gain and hold power: "I am not doing this for myself . . . It is for your welfare I do these things. . . Dictators are always selfless in their own stuporously blind eyes . . . To them their aims are always pure and great . . .

Thus Napoleon wrecked a continent with incessant wars, drained French manhood of most of its blood, and all he was really trying to do (he said) was to create a peaceful Europe . . . Thus a domineering mother makes a stranger of her husband drives her children from her home, and cannot understand it, because "I only tried to make them do what I thought was best for them . . . And if they had only done it, everything would have turned out all right. . ."

What destroys dictators? . . . Their egomania usually carries them too far . . . Their excesses become too much for the people to bear, and they meet the fate of Nero . . . Or, like Hitler and Mussolini, they are deluded into believing that because they are skilled in politics they also are masters of war . . . They get to thinking they can do anything. . . And who is to tell them they can't. In this respect Stalin is the most times . . . He pitted his enemies against each other rather than against him . . . He kept a wolf-like sense of caution to the end.

Chillicothe
Rider Thrown
By Horse

CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP)—Ohio's envoy to Washington, who escaped injury when his horse threw him in downtown Cumberland Friday, was on his way to Martinsburg, W. Va., today.

George Murphy of Chillicothe, carrying messages to President Eisenhower and Congress as a stunt for Ohio's sesquicentennial, was thrown when his horse was frightened by an automobile. The horse also fell, but it wasn't hurt.

It was a hazard that never bothered Tom Worthington, Ohio's first senator who made the horseback trip 150 years ago with a petition for Ohio's admission to statehood. Worthington, however, didn't have an auto trailer to travel between cities and Murphy has.

City officials of Cumberland, including Mayor Roy W. Eves and his wife, a former resident of Chillicothe, greeted Murphy at the city limits.

Murphy and his party stayed overnight here. The party includes Charles (Red) Taylor, blacksmith, and Don Srausbaugh, who takes care of the horse.

They hope to arrive in Martinsburg at noon and Leesburg, Va., at 6 p. m. They plan to spend the week end in Leesburg and arrive in Washington Monday morning.

By His deeds, by His teachings, by His death upon the Cross, Christ demonstrated the duty and responsibility of Christians to share with their less fortunate fellowmen.

Today as we read our newspapers and listen to our radios, we sometimes tend to disregard the need and suffering in other parts of the world. Momentarily we may feel sorry, but it passes quickly as we return our thoughts to personal affairs.

To help us become more aware of our opportunity and responsibility for helping others, there has been instituted "One Great Hour of Sharing," a united effort by America's churches to assist overseas relief. Next Sunday tens of thousands of churches will simultaneously cooperate in this great plan at their Sabbath services.

Through "One Great Hour of Sharing" millions of destitute peoples will be aided and comforted. Millions will learn that because of the unselfish and understanding heart of America, there is for them hope of a brighter tomorrow.

And to America, "One Great Hour of Sharing" will bring the priceless blessing of spiritual enrichment that rewards those who have obeyed these words: "Go ye into all the world . . . to every creature."

Won't you go to your Church on Sunday, and join this great effort?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Politics Vs. Law Of Gravity

One of the things Dwight Eisenhower certainly did not promise in his campaign, was higher prices. He campaigned against inflation, not for it.

Mr. Truman and his stand-in, Adlai Stevenson, were the inflation candidates in 1952, and they lost.

This suddenly has become of first-rate political importance.

From the squeaks, squawks, hoots and howls emanating from citizens who are afraid prices may begin to fall or fall further in some lines, such as agriculture, it might be deduced that Gen. Eisenhower promised to keep inflating forever.

There is only one known way in the whole world to avert ruinous inflation—quit inflating. That is what Gen. Eisenhower proposed to do—quit inflating. The opposition proposed to do the opposite.

Everything the new administration has done so far, everything it is talking about doing, adds up to an intent to quit inflating. That's the mandate it took away from the polls last November—to quit inflating.

But every decline in price levels is greeted with a moan by conservatives and a shriek of derision by the wild men of the political left. No one can blame the Eisenhower administration for wondering if there's any political future in going contrary to the same spend-eat formula which kept the New Deal in power, at the cost of confiscatory taxes and a national debt close to $270 billion.

Politicians, all else being equal, will do what they think is popular. That was why the New Dealers stuck with inflation to the bitter end; it was popular.

Anyone naive enough to believe the Eisenhower administration does not want to be popular is ignorant of the forces which govern policy-making in a two-party system. Someone had better start patting the anti-inflationists on the back instead of hitting them on the head—or they might quit trying to avert inflation.

It Could Make History

This is still the partisan honeymoon in Washington. And it is still the honeymoon for the divisive elements inside the Eisenhower administration which could be even harder to handle than the party opposition.

But something is going on that could make history with a little assistance from current events. A chief executive of the United States has taken the attitude it is not necessary to throw his weight against Congress, to keep Congress from elbowing him into oblivion.

This may be no solution for the perennial problem of executive-legislative friction, but it's a new point of view. It's the kind of a point of view which might have been expected from a President whose most admirable characteristic has been his ability to get along with people.

Historians seem to be pretty sure the friction between the White House and the Capitol is a fixed circumstance and cannot be altered. Ad presidents, they point out, either must dominate Congress or be dominated by the domineering elements in Congress.

It could make history if a president with no desire to dominate Congress could prove that a majority of Congressmen had no desire to dominate him either.

It could make a vast improvement in government, too.

Hothouse Sport

Two massive facts are making basketball the most important of American sports for both players and spectators.

First, the game is universal because anyone can play with a minimum of equipment and skill.

Second, the game has flourished and will continue to flourish because it is a hothouse sport, played and watched in comfort.

A third reason still in the late stages of development may be added soon. Basketball is the only game in which it is theoretically and practically possible to determine championship quality in direct competition.

Development of the tournament system, under which most states select high school champions and college and professional champions also may be selected, is adding special interest to the one universal game in the United States.

Baseball, except as played by professionals, has almost ceased to have a following. Many young baseball players now are recruited among football and basketball players.

Football, despite its followers who stick with it through the occasional hardships of its short outdoor season, has become a sport for specialists; no others need apply.

This is the height of the basketball tournament season. Better take in a session of America's most widely-played and widely-watched game.

There's a good possibility that Junior won't pass when his dad won't pass up the chance to help with homework.

Spiritual Diary for Lent

The righteous shall live by faith.—Galatians 3:11.

Then shall on faith's sublimest wing
Our ardent wishes rise,
To those bright scenes, where pleasures spring
Immortal in the skies.

—Mrs. Steele

Today's Message

Righteousness consists of beautiful deeds of mercy and sincere words of love. Such righteous deeds and words spring up from one's faith-in-Jesus-Christ-as-our-Saviour like crocus cups and daffodils spring up from our garden's bulbs. This shows us why righteous people live the life of faith in Jesus. Their living is enriched by the touches of the supreme type of behavior as experienced through faith in Him.

Righteous living in the Christian faith guides the soul away from false lights and untrustworthy guides. It saves us from becoming fascinated by evil appearances. We find ourselves conquering temptations with terrific blows as strong as those of the battering ram.

Righteous living in the Christian faith lightens earthly troubles and often changes them into trifling discomforts. Harmful thistles of iniquity are destroyed before they are able to sprout from within us. The works of the flesh fail and the holy, beautiful life of faith wins an eternal victory.

—PAUL Y. LIVINGSTON

Today's Prayer

O God and Father of us all, if life's experiences are not controlled by faith in Jesus as our Saviour and Redeemer, we pray Thee to guide our living into the knowledge of such loveliness. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Van Fleet Lifts Lid Off Korea

They pinned a decoration on his chest for distinguished service—but they might better have decorated him as the "Vanishing American."

For the phenomenon of a general who comes back home to say that he believes in a military victory is nowadays so strange, so unique, so different from what has been the doctrine prevailing here for the last two and a half years that when the words fell from the lips of James Van Fleet, top commander in the Korean war, it became news of headline importance.

Why shouldn't a military commander believe in victory? Why shouldn't he urge that the offensive be taken and the enemy defeated? Why shouldn't the troops under his command have enough ammunition to fire at the enemy? And who dares to tell him not to fight to win?

These questions would have sounded odd to the Americans in combat less than eight years ago. But today billions of dollars can be spent on gadgets for intercontinental wars that may never come to pass, and yet ammunition, so sorely needed by the foot soldier, has been lacking at critical moments to our troops in Korea.

What explanation can the Truman-Acheson administration make to these charges? Sen. Byrd, has demanded with indignation that the Defense Department get the facts of the ammunition shortage and tell them to the public so responsibility can be fixed.

The American people have known that, upon instructions from the Department of State—so-called diplomatic policy—orders were issued in the autumn of 1950 to countermand Gen. MacArthur's own orders to his airmen to blow up the bridges across the Yalu River so that the Chinese Communist armies could be delayed, if not prevented from coming across into Korea.

The American people have also known that, while the Communist planes could come into Korea from bases in Manchuria and strike at American boys, the American bombers were not allowed, by order of President Truman and Secretary Acheson, to pursue them to their bases—because the British objected.

But not until Gen. Van Fleet testified before the Senate committee was it known that ammunition for the foot soldier had been deficient.

There are, likewise, tales of anxious hours when, if a certain ship en route across the Pacific had been sunk, the fate of the entire American army in Korea might have been tragic. There are other details that have not yet come out.

But Gen. Van Fleet has told enough to alert the American nation to the kind of negligence that has been going on in the conduct of the Korean war.

The Van Fleet testimony is sensational because it reveals that, while billions of dollars were being spent and billions of taxpayers' money were being collected, the foot soldier didn't have ammunition with which to challenge the enemy in close fighting on the Korean battle front.

It also shows that victory was a possible, and yet the American soldier was not allowed to seek it.

The former commander of the Eighth Army tells, for instance, how the American troops were about ready to attain victory in May, 1951.

That was when Secretary Acheson publicly stated a willingness of the United States to stop the fighting on and around the 38th Parallel and talk peace.

The Communists accepted promptly and then stalled. No time limit was placed by the U.N. on the length of the parleys.

How can any army ever be trained for modern combat if it is not trained to fight for victory? Is the American youth to be indoctrinated with the concept that, when he gets on the football gridiron, he must not play to win but only to achieve a nothing-to-nothing score?

Morale in the fighting armies of the world fluctuates with the national spirit. It was the complacency of the French nations, dominated by an enemy fifth column, that ruined the morale of the French Army in 1940, and history is full of instances where the fighting quality of a national army disappears as patriotism and national spirit deteriorates.

It was right for the United States to intervene in Korea, but it was wrong to keep armies there without adequate ammunition.

It was right to let American boys to sacrifice their lives for victory in Korea—more than 20,000 have done so—but it was wrong to tell them that they could not use all the weapons, including all manner of air power, to win and that the foot soldier must bear the brunt of the fighting without the benefit of maximum military power.

Gen. Van Fleet's testimony is that "There is not substitute for victory on the battlefield." But the general is a lone voice crying in a wilderness of pacifism and timidity in Washington that still permeates some official quarters.

It may come as a shock for him to learn that American boys have apparently been used as guinea pigs for experiments in international appeasement.

Gen. Van Fleet will be surprised at the America he finds typified in Washington today—but maybe his words will remind the new administration that it was elected on a platform of doing something, instead of permitting the Korean War to drag on indefinitely without victory.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

Alcoholic ice cream has been introduced to the British public and we fear for those who didn't quite catch the name during the introduction.

A fellow with bloodshot eyes would have a hard time convincing his wife that he had stopped in for one chocolate malted.

Alcoholic ice cream comes in four delirium flavors—whiskey, rum, brandy and wow.

Wow is the one that people think is old-fashioned vanilla and turns out to be straight old-fashioned.

It is not expected that the alcoholic ice cream will be popular in the American market. So many of our citizens buy their whiskey "to have a little something in the house for a chill" it would be difficult to switch them to buying a chill to have a little something in the house.

When the United States bought Alaska from Russia in 1867, it is estimated that there were about 30,000 people in the area, about two-thirds of whom were Eskimos and Indians.

A Waste Of Money

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The new agency of the Ford Foundation, "Fund for the Republic," of which Paul Hoffman is the head, is undertaking an enterprise which requires scrutiny because it is the first time that an eleemosynary institution has entered upon a political activity.

Sokolosky

While the "Fund for the Republic" claims that it is opposed to Communism, it obviously intends to run an inquiry that will parallel the investigations of congressional committees.

There can be no objection to private citizens organizing for the purpose of making an objective study of any function of government. However, such a private body, to be respected, needs to publish not only the distinguished names who act as a front, but also the paid employees who do the actual work.

It has been found in the past that men and women of dubious reputations find employment behind such fronts and pursue courses which tragically end in refuge behind the Fifth Amendment.

THE NAMES of the paid employees, the staff of Paul Hoffman's new committee, have not been made public and therefore there is no possibility of scrutiny for the purpose of appraising the objectivity of its work.

However, one hears that among them are some who say that while they themselves are opposed to Communism, they are equally opposed to the methods used by congressional committees and anti-Communist groups to ferret out traitors, spies and agents of the Stalinist conspiracy.

If this is correct, it will be interesting to see what methods they criticize and what other methods might be used for these purposes. It will also be interesting to see how they spend $15,000,000 for this purpose and who gets the money.

TO CONTRAST the use of economic power by a private foundation, it is important to note that while the Ford Foundation spends $15,000,000 for this purpose, the House Committee on Un-American Activities has an appropriation of $300,000; the McCarthy Committee $200,000; the Jenner committee, $20,000. Sen. McCarran, with a smaller appropriation, ably uncovered a vile ring of spies and Communists in the United Nations.

While inquiry of every nature is to be welcomed, it is startling that this particular type requires the huge sum of $15,000,000. The amount seems to be too large for the target sought.

For instance, research workers can find effectively the methods employed by congressional committees by analyzing the testimony taken before such committees, all of which is printed and available and costs no money if read in the public libraries or if obtained from the committees. Perhaps the Ford Foundation will re-investigate these cases or hold private hearings of its own.

PERHAPS it will retry the Alger Hiss case or send a copy of the Earl of Jowitt's forthcoming book on Hiss to every library in the country. That would cost a good deal of money, although hardly $15,000,000.

Maybe $15,000,000 seems a huge sum to me, I being just a laborer who toils in the fields, whereas

Paul Hoffman has distributed billions of American dollars to all the nations of the world and is therefore accustomed to large figures.

Admittedly, there is a difference in point of view. Nevertheless, it seems to be a lot of money to spend on analyzing Sen. McCarthy's methods or to produce the startling evidence that because of a resolution publicly passed at an American Legion Convention some citizens will not attend a motion picture in which a Communist is employed, or that a technique has been devised to make it easier for persons cited as Communists or fellow-travelers to clear themselves by their own means.

ALL THE information on this subject is available and can be read in "The American Legion Magazine," and other publications, including this column. If Mr. Hoffman wants further data on the Hollywood situation, I shall be glad to provide it to him for nothing and he can then give the $15,000,000 for cancer research or some other useful purpose.

If he will appoint a committee of ex-Communists whom I could recommend, he might really learn what it is all about.

Or, better still, if he sat down for a quiet evening with J. Edgar Hoover the greatest authority on the subject of the preservation of civil rights in our country, he would learn a great deal without spending one cent of the $15,000,000.

The Bank Crisis

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Several days in the current week are twentieth anniversaries of the momentous happenings in the bank crisis of 1933. There are circumstances surrounding those events which have some meaning for the current problems of the new Eisenhower administration, else those days might be left to history.

The events of those days 20 years ago have been so muddled by partisan gabble that to most people they are a meaningless blur.

To some, however, the banking crisis that attended Roosevelt's inauguration was a horrible disaster brought on by evil and blundering Republicans and from which heroic Democrats gallantly rescued the country.

There were mistakes all around, it is true, but this political myth deserves correction in the light of what really happened.

To make this correction, it is unnecessary to resolve the issue between Messrs. Hoover and Roosevelt as to what might have been a critical state. There is no need to review that here.

The fact is that by March 3 things had reached a critical state.

There were devastating withdrawals of gold and currency, which grew worse hour by hour. The Hoover people knew quite well what could be done, but resitated because there was no assurance that Congress would confirm their actions.

They claimed, with some reason, that only Roosevelt could give that assurance. That, he refused to give because he claimed that he could not guarantee the action of Congress.

The moment he was installed in the White House, on the afternoon of March 4, he took the suggested actions himself. These were the invoking of an old power under the World War I "Trading With the Enemy Act," to control the withdrawal of gold and silver, and a proclamation closing the banks. These actions, so often designated as "bold and daring," were prepared in the office of the secretary of the treasury by the ex-Secretary of the Treasury Mills, hold-over Undersecretary Ballantine, Acting Controller of the Currency F. G. Awalt, together with Will Woodin, Roosevelt's new secretary of the treasury.

The Hoover people labored as valiantly as anyone to save the situation, and their experienced help was invaluable.

Later that week, after the banks were closed, on March 6, Jesse Jones, a Hoover appointee but a Democrat, came into action with the RFC, a Hoover product. By an amendment to the act creating the RFC, rushed through Congress on March 9, Jones was able to invest in the preferred stock or capital notes of banks which were permitted to open. But the determination of which banks were to receive this help depended upon the experienced help of Ballantine and Awalt and the subsequent judgment of Woodin.

I know these facts to be true, because I was present throughout, assisting Woodin.

Thus, the salvation of the banks and the economic stability of the country depended upon the meshing of the experience of the outgoing regime with the prestige and energy of the new one.

This continuity is essential in any change, and it is the reason why, despite the growling of Republican job hunters, it is essential to move slowly in changing top personnel.

In another column I want to give an account of the third event in that week—the drastic economy program which gave such a lift to the country and which no doubt was a big factor in bringing money back to the banks.

That, too, has a bearing on present events.

Most primitive farming groups have magic or religious ceremonies which they practice in connection with their farming operations.

New Deal In Golf

President Eisenhower's excursions into golf have behind them a wish to bring back the game as it was before the Democrats began their 20-year rule. There was a New Deal in golf, too. Federal supports of golf scores, parity in sandtraps, putt controls and all that sort of thing. Perhaps the most sweeping change that came under the Democrats governed the score card, the administration contending that a Democrat could put down any score he desired on any hole without announcing it, and, turn aside, "What score on this hole?" with a stern "that's an iffy question."

Under Democratic rule, a player didn't have to put down his score immediately after completing a hole, but could write it down four or five holes later to the best of his recollection. It was held that sticking too close to facts in golf was depressing, destructive to morale and a threat to national happiness.

The loss of a score card during a match was permissible and a player, at the 18th, could make a guess. New Deal golfers, it will be recalled, also benefitted from a GCRFC (Golf Course Reconstruction Finance Corporation), under which a player, finishing with 110, for example, could borrow from tomorrow's score. (No golfer ever gave himself anything worse than four on any hole in tomorrow's game. Thus, he could throw out a few nines and tens from today's game and get a loan of a few deuces and maybe a hole-in-one from games yet to come.)

A golfer under Truman could borrow so many strokes that he would get himself into terrible debt, but the government agency permitted this as "deficit financing." We know a lot of Democrats who owed themselves as many as 1,500,000 strokes at the end of a season.

In Roosevelt's second term a golf stroke limit was fixed at 1,000,000 strokes per season, but when Truman went out the limit had been raised to 8,000,000 and golf was in a bad way. Democratic economists insisted a golfer was in no danger if he owed 8,500,000 strokes as "he owed it to himself."

Under the New Deal, penalty strokes were vetoed except in the case of the Republicans, and a golfer, if he had voted right, could always use a wooden tee in a sandtrap or throw his ball across a water hole upon declaring it an "emergency measure." We once drove a ball into a cowshed and under a cow on the Race Brook course back home but placed a new ball on the fairway without penalty, claiming that the cow was an emergency and that the barn was something left over by Herbert Hoover.)

--

Ike is out to undo all this and restore golf as it used to be. But we wish he would stop trying to shoot in the 80s. This can sap a man's vitality, ruin his disposition, incapacitate him as a president, undermine his health and cost him a lot of friends. (He can even make Mamie's life miserable, coming home after every game and explaining those extra strokes.)

Listen, Ike, not once in the campaign did you promise to break ninety. There isn't a word in the GOP platform guaranteeing an 87.

Howard S. Cullman hopes to build a theater within an office building as soon as the laws permit. . . . It will have elevators to the balconies and a basement for car parking. . . . We hope it has a dungeon for anybody charging 25 cents for a paper cup full of watered fruit juices, a washroom that can be located without radar and a corridor not especially designed for waiting mice.

A Temple University professor suspended for refusing to answer a Senate committee's question, "Where were you born and when?" declares, "I conceive that no act of mine could have better demonstrated my loyalty to my country." . . . Maybe his idea of complete patriotism is to give his right height.

FINAL POOL EDITION

VOL. 1, NO. 1

Sponsored by the Kiwanis Club Pool Campaign Committee

SALEM, OHIO, SATURDAY, MARCH 7, 1953

Your contribution urgently needed to complete swimming pool drive

FINAL DRIVE FOR SWIMMING POOL FUNDS SCHEDULED FOR SUNDAY EVENING, 7 TO 9

Porch Light Campaign Seeks To Raise $15,000 To Push Pool Drive Beyond Its Goal

Children Prove They Want Pool, Raise $1,715.88 For Drive

Neighborhood children have proven their desire for a swimming pool in Salem by raising a sizeable sum toward the drive.

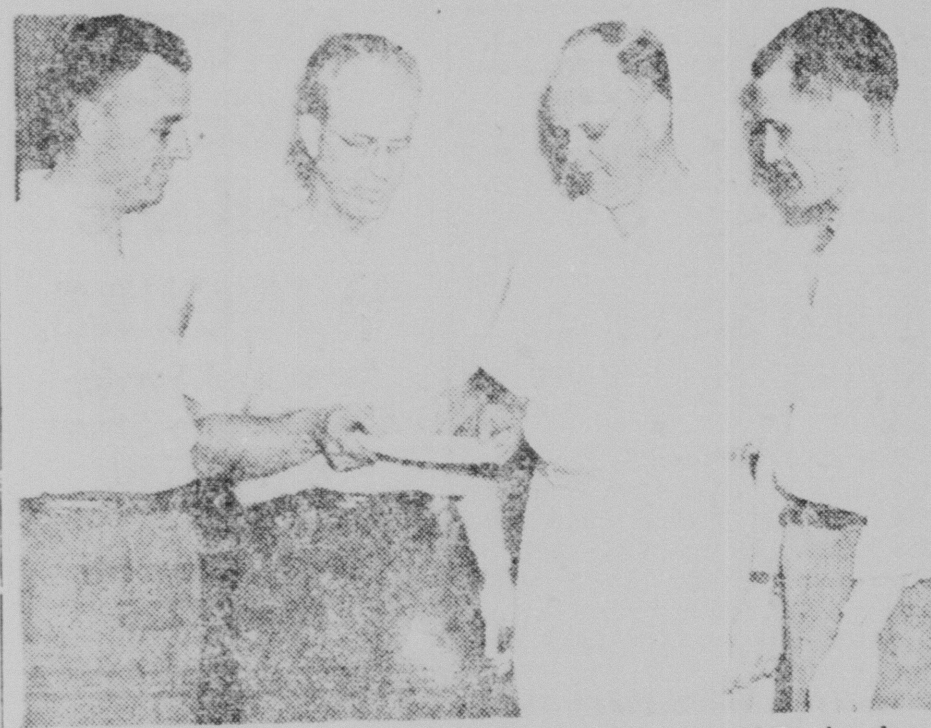

Holding backyard carnivals and bake sales they have brought in $1,715.88 to help get themselves a place for exercise and fun.

Among the neighborhood groups whose work was reported to the Salem News are:

S. Madison Ave., $50; Ridgewood Drive, $51; Mound St., $85; W. Fifth St., $160; E. Pershing St., $106; Eleventh St., $20.

Perry-Lundy St., $60; New Garden Ave., $136; Hawley and Cleveland, $84; S. Lincoln, $127; Second and Third Sts., $136; E. State, N. Roosevelt, and N. Madison Sts., $106; Petiteens, $10.

When It All Started

Volunteers Ready To Visit Homes Where Light Is Shining

The Kiwanis-inaugurated drive to build a swimming pool in Salem's Centennial Park will come to a climax Sunday evening, from 7 to 9 p.m., when Kiwanians and others interested in promoting the pool will conduct an extensive porch light campaign, seeking enough money to put the drive over its goal.

Some $15,000 is needed to complete the estimated goal of $75,000.

Many dozens of volunteer workers are ready to hit every home in Salem that shines its porch light that night as a sign that the residents there want to do their part for this extremely worthwhile civic project.

After canvassing their territory, workers will go to the Strauss Hirschberg store where a check will be made to see that no territory is missed.

Kiwanians started the drive June 26, 1952, realizing the need in Salem for a recreation spot for children. No more wholesome or healthful type of recreation could have been chosen by the club.

The project has received the backing of every civic, church, and social group, and numerous groups of children have shown how deeply they want the pool by holding backyard carnivals and bake sales to raise the money toward the quota.

Big donations came from manufacturers, helping to swell the total to over $60,000. Since the project is so clearly a major step in community betterment, Kiwanis members now are making it easy for everyone in the community to feel they have helped make Salem a better place to live.

Pool committeemen urge everyone to have their porch lights lit Sunday evening. The light will be a sign to the whole neighborhood that a person truly interested in the welfare and happiness of Salem children lives inside.

It is possible that the pool may be made available for ice skating in the winter. A children's wading pool is planned for one end of the larger pool which will be 60 by 125 feet with a bathhouse accommodating between 600 and 700 persons.

The all-steel tank will be 11 feet deep at the diving board end and two feet deep at the shallow end. Spectator areas will adjoin both the main pool and the wading pool. The spacious bathhouse will accommodate a concession stand at one end.

If the porch light campaign is successful, the fund will have reached its goal ahead of schedule. Kiwanians had hoped to have the $75,000 raised by April 1, with construction starting then and the pool in use by mid-summer.

It would be disappointing to delay construction of the pool, when so much money has been raised already, committeemen point out, and so urge a generous contribution at each house Sunday.

Everyone in Salem wants the pool, Kiwanians emphasize, and add that there is only one way to get it — donate as much as you can when your doorbell rings Sunday. It will be for the good of Salem for many years to come.

Quota Club Gives $700

A benefit fair was held in the Memorial Building by the Quota Club, the first the organization has ever held, half the proceeds of which went to the swimming pool fund.

This affair netted $700 for the pool.

FESTIVAL AIDS POOL

The American Legion Fall Festival turned over one-half of its proceeds to the swimming pool drive.

Artist's Sketch Of Centennial Park Pool

The above drawing, by Arthur H. Vaughan, chief engineer at the Electric Furnace Co., and a member of the Kiwanis Club, gives some idea of how the Centennial Park swimming pool will look when completed. The pool fund is still short about $15,000 of its $75,000 goal. This deficit may be wiped out Sunday night in the porch light campaign, set for 7 to 9 p.m.

Elks Benefit Nets $325

A check for $325 which the Elks Auxiliary netted for the Kiwanis swimming pool fund through a benefit is presented to Horace Schwartz, representing Kiwanis, by Mrs. Leo Hickey, president of the auxiliary.

Mrs. Fordham Benson, who was in charge of ticket sales for the benefit, presents the prize, a doll dressed in 50 $1 bills to Mary Ellen Reed of E. Fourth St., winner of the prize. Blair Patterson of the Kiwanis swimming pool committee, looks on at right.

The benefit was one of many held in Salem which has brought the swimming pool fund near its final goal. All residents can join to put the drive over the top Sunday night, from 7-9 when a porch light campaign is being held. Pool committee members will stop at all homes who have their porch lights on for pool donations. They urge everyone to give generously.

Groups Give Strong Support To Pool Drive, Donate $11,891.88

Civic, church and fraternal organizations have contributed $11,891.88 toward the swimming pool drive.

The following organizations who have contributed or raised funds can be found in looking over the Salem News files:

Mullins Booster Club, $100; Goshen Grange, $50; V.F.W., $500; Salem Hunting Club, $50; Gold Star Auxiliary, $25; Catholic Daughters, $100; Jaycees, $500; Business and Professional Women's Tag Day, $700; Moose Women, $25; Jewish Women, $509; American Legion Fall Festival, $278;

Salem Grange, $50; McKinley School P.T.A., $422; Lions Women, $100; Garden Study Club $100; Local Union C.I.O. Steel Workers, No. 395, $200; Knights of Columbus, $200;

Rotary Club, $500; Prospect P.T.A., $200; Salem Junior Saxon Club, $100; St. Paul's Church, $250; Reilly School (proceeds from play) $420; American Legion Women, $466; Elks Club (minstrel) $892.73; $100.

Transylvania Saxons, $1,500; Girl Scouts $701.

St. Paul's Junior Guild, $50; St. John's Evangelical Church $51.50; Willow Grove Grange, $50; Barbers' Union $50; Buckeye School, to date, $3,500.

Italian Club, $107; Willow Grove Grange, $50; Lions Club (Christmas tree sale) $750; Quota Club, $700; Painters Union No. 722, $100; total Kiwanis Club contributions to date, $3,500.

City Council Has Endorsed Swimming Pool

Pool To Be Operated By City; Will Be Self-Sustaining

The Kiwanis - sponsored swimming pool at Centennial Park received the endorsement of City Council before Kiwanians went ahead with their all-out drive.

The city will operate the pool after it is built. Kiwanians have pointed out that a swimming pool is self-sustaining. The superintendent of Firestone Park in Columbiana told Council that in June, last year, the swimming pool there took in $6,100.

He pointed out that Salem is a larger community and should do even better.

The council motion to endorse the needed city recreation spot was passed unanimously. The pool has also been endorsed by the Salem Civic Committee and the City Park Commission. With only $15,000 needed of the $75,000 necessary to build the pool, Kiwanians now hope that the community will unanimously join in the final effort to push the drive to success.

Manufacturers Show Interest In Pool, Donate $24,000

Salem manufacturers have shown their strong interest in the recreation and health of our children by donating the largest percentage of money so far collected in the swimming pool fund.

Industries have contributed $24,000 thus far toward the Centennial Park project. Most of the manufacturers' contributions have been made anonymously. Individuals' donations have swelled the total another $6,377.87.

Community spirit is expected to be further seen when the actual construction of the pool is begun in Centennial Park. A group of skilled tradesmen has offered to help build the pool and a committee of five engineers is contributing its services to working out the many engineering problems involved.

The generosity of the manufacturers can now be duplicated by the community as a whole in a project that will benefit the whole community, the swimming pool committee points out. They urge everyone to have their porch lights on Sunday night, from 7 to 9, and to donate as much as possible.

INSPECT NEW POOL

Some 25 to 30 Salem residents have travelled to Greenville, Pa., to inspect the new swimming pool in that city and to secure ideas for the pool in Salem.

Reilly School Pool Benefit

Reilly School students brought in $466 for the swimming pool fund through an operetta "Taffy Ann" held in the school. Principal characters in the operetta included Susan Farrington, Carol Ward, James Murphy, Ralph Hansteen, Edwin Griffiths, Louise Oswald, Lois Weirick, Sherrill Hutson, Marilyn Stratton, Karen Combs, Aaron Swenningson, Larry Muntz, Reed Harvey, Richard Sandrock, Barbara Ford and Gloriann Grace.

Some 200 youngsters were in the cast of the operetta. Youth groups have consistently been in the fore in boosting enthusiasm for the pool. Their parents can now match their enthusiasm by being ready when the swimming pool committee members call Sunday night and contributing to the vital project.

POSTER WINNERS—Winners of the Kiwanis Kapers Poster Contest at Junior High School were, left to right, Harry Izenour, 7A, Mary Lukanus, 8B, Cora Needham, 8E, Barbara Shepard, 8B, and Bill Vaughan, 8D. The posters were drawn to publicize the Kapers, proceeds of which went into the swimming pool fund. About $2,000 was realized from the Kapers this year.

Kiwanis has donated a large sum to the pool and its members have put in a great deal of time working for the project. Kiwanians and other civic-minded persons will conduct the porch light campaign Sunday night. Residents can show their appreciation the work already done on the project by turning on their porch lights and having a contribution ready when the door bell rings.

THE WATER STILL ISN'T FINE (BUT WILL BE SOON)—Three smiling boys were photographed last summer lying on the grass where this summer they may be lying in a pool of cool water—provided everyone comes through and helps put over the porch light campaign planned to put the swimming pool drive over the top Sunday night. Lying on the site of the Centennial Park Swimming Pool are, left to right, David Shaffer, Bob Stockton, and Roy Yeager.

Ohio Basketball District Tournaments Enter Final Phase

Sports Spotlight Is Beamed On Middletown's Clash With First Place Dayton Stivers

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Finals in Ohio's high school basketball district tournaments are scheduled in 21 cities tonight, but the sports spotlight will be beamed on Dayton.

Middletown's defending champions, sporting a 19-2 record and rated the state's No. 2 team, tangle there with Dayton Stivers, the No. 1 quintet with a 19-1 record. They'll battle for a berth in next week's regional at Cincinnati—and the winner automatically becomes the favorite to win the state crown March 21.

Between them, Stivers and Middletown have won a dozen of the 44 Class A championships. The Gem City powerhouse, beaten this season only by Indiana's champion, Muncie, triumphed eight times, taking the title last in 1930. The classy Middies snatched the title on four occasions, including 1951. Portsmouth and Hamilton defeated the Middies this season.

Five Class A quintets—Newark, Akron Ellet, Akron Garfield, Cincinnati St. Xavier and Toledo Woodward—won regional berths Friday night and will be joined by 11 other tonight.

Newark goes to the Toledo regional, as does Toledo Woodward. Akron Ellet, the 1944 Class B champion now graduated to Class A, and unbeaten Akron Garfield (18-0) go to the Kent Regional. St. Xavier stays in Cincinnati to await the winners of the Athens, Troy and Dayton events.

Two teams which emerged this year from Class B are winning in Class A, and both could wind up in the Cincinnati clash. They are Tecumseh of Clark County (21-1), which meets 1942 champion Xenia Central (17-4) at Troy tonight, and Minford of Scioto County (23-1) which clashes with Chillicothe (15-4) at Athens.

Three former Class A champions, Akron North, Dayton Roosevelt and Springfield Public, were ousted in Friday night's games. Other casualties included Massillon and Alliance, the two Stark County powerhouses who had been tipped to meet in the finals. They lost in the semi-finals to Minerva and Canton Timken.

Ames-Bern's 24-1 record was wrecked at Athens in Class B as Glenford, 1941 champion, won its 23rd in a row and a regional berth 69-57. The 21-1 mark of Lucas was spoiled 58-57 by Arlington at Tiffin. Brush, after winning 18 of 19 in Class A, was eliminated by Cleveland East Tech 70-50. It was the winners' 16th game without a loss.

They had traded the two previous games, each losing the game on its home court before the crucial one was shifted to a neutral floor.

Snead, Mayer Lead Baton Rouge Open

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Sam Snead, one of golf's top money winners, and Dick Mayer, a newcomer who's been at the paydow in 10 of his last 12 tournaments, led a whittled-down field into the third round $10,000 Baton Rouge Open today.

The West Virginia mountaineer with the phenomenal long irons and the youthful former tank sergeant from St. Petersburg, Fla., carded seven-under-par 137s at the end of 36 holes Friday as tournament officials separated the men from the boys by drawing the line at 149.

Only 60 big name pros who scored under the elimination figure and the 10 leading amateurs were left to seek gold or glory over the par 72, 6,411-yard Baton Rouge Country Club course.

NEW WHITE SOX INFIELD—When the Chicago White Sox trot out onto the field for the first game of the 1953 season, these four players, two of them obtained in winter trades, are expected to comprise the infield. ## Baseball Teams To See Action As Exhibition Season Opens

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
It's here! The 1953 spring training exhibition season gets under way today with all of the 16 major league clubs in action.

This year's exhibition games will be played on a high level or the pilots will have to answer to Commissioner Ford Frick. He reminded the managers yesterday of baseball's responsibility to the public.

"The commissioner urges you to make every possible effort to do a major league job in major league fashion," he emphasized in a statement. "Exhibition games should be played with the same zest and performance as regular season games."

Only two of the major league squads, the Pittsburgh Pirates and the St. Louis Browns, are scheduled to play against major league opposition. The Pirates take on the Cuban All-Stars at Havana and the Browns meet the Los Angeles Angels at Los Angeles. The Brownie "B" team travels to Santa Maria, Calif., to tangle with a Japanese all-star squad.

The World Champion New York Yankees start off with the St. Louis Cardinals at St. Petersburg, Fla., and the Brooklyn Dodgers, last year's National League pennant winners, clash with the Boston Braves at Miami.

Other games include: Cincinnati vs. the Boston Red Sox at Sarasota, Fla.; the Chicago Cubs vs. the Chicago White Sox at Mesa, Ariz.; the New York Giants vs. Cleveland at Tucson, Ariz.; Detroit vs. the Philadelphia Phillies at Clearwater, Fla.; and Washington against the Philadelphia A's at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Except for Andy Pafko, now with the Braves, the Dodgers will start their 1952 World Series lineup against the Boston Club. Don Thompson, up from Montreal, or Bill Antonello, recalled from Mobile, will open in Pafko's old left field spot.

Some of the Yankees, meanwhile, were wondering whether they'll be on the New York roster much longer. St. Louis Browns' owner Bill Veeck visited the Bombers' St. Petersburg quarters and announced he was seeking some outfield and pitching help. He talked for two hours with General Manager George Weiss of the Yanks.

"I want some ball players," Veeck said. "Our talk didn't produce anything concrete but there is a chance of a deal going through."

Veeck didn't mention any names but he's ready to take outfielder Irv Noren if the Yankees decide to peddle him. It's possible they will do so since Manager Casey Stengel is known to be high on Bill Skowron, a rookie. Skowron, still on the Kansas City roster, led the American Association in batting and runs batted in last year.

Teen Agers Favored In Skating Contest

CLEVELAND (AP)—Teen agers Hayes Jenkins and Tenley Albright, both Americans and both world figure skating champions, were favored tonight to win their first North American titles.

On the basis of their performance in the school figures, they lead the men and women's divisions of the North American, currently being held at the Cleveland Skating Club.

Right behind Jenkins, a 19-year-old Akron boy was Canadian Champion Peter Firstbrook of Toronto. Miss Albright's closest rival was Canadian women's champion Barbara Gratton.

Tonight, the men and women's champions will be determined after the free skating events.

The contest is between Canada and the United States. In the men's division there are three Americans and three Canadians. In the women's, the participants are four Americans and four Canadians.

Tommy Collins Seeks 6th Straight Win

BOSTON (AP)—Tommy Collins of Boston, a skinny little Irishman with power-packed fists, rules a prohibitive favorite over lightweight Fabela Chavez of Los Angeles for their nationally-televised 10-round boxing bout tonight at the Arena.

Collins, whose slight build belies his terrific punching power, will be seeking his sixth straight victory while making his TV boxing debut over the ABC network. The New England bout starts at 9 p.m. EST.

Billy Graham Wins Over Joey Giardello

NEW YORK (AP)—"Now I guess they'll believe I won the other two fights," said jubilant Billy Graham today as he celebrated his 100th pro victory and his first triumph over Joey Giardello.

This one—scored over 12 rounds in Madison Square Garden Friday night—was by unanimous decision. It brought to a close a controversial three-bout series which provoked more disputes than most heavyweight title fights.

It was the first unanimous verdict in the series—Giardello won the other two by split decision—and it was the first time three officials had come up with the same winner for a Garden main event in five weeks.

CHICAGO (AP)—Fame is fleeting in the youth-charged Golden Gloves competition.

Before a Chicago Stadium throng of 18,436 Friday night, Olympic champion Ed Sanders of Los Angeles was rudely dethroned as Golden Gloves heavyweight titlist by a 20-year-old boxing novice, Charles Liston of St. Louis.

The only other returning champion, light heavy Eddie Jones of Chicago, also lost a three-round decision to switch-puncher Calvin Butler, 21-year-old laborer from Cleveland.

Out in the cow country, Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas, lots of people think that 65 to 80 miles an hour is a safe touring speed. ## Malenkov's Rise To Power Stirs Speculation On Purges

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. experts wondered today whether Georgi Malenkov's swift rise to power in Russia will be followed eventually by purges of government officials and political figures.

There had been advance speculation that such a purge might come soon after Stalin's death. But the speed and apparent orderliness with which Malenkov emerged as the potential new strong man raised, at the least, some doubts whether the group which put him in power was in fact divided in any important way.

The other two strong figures from the Stalin administration—V. M. Molotov and L. P. Beria—both have key posts in the new Council of Ministers.

Earlier estimates of what would happen in Russia after Stalin died had given rise, in some degree, to a propaganda line developed by the Voice of America since Stalin became ill and to much speculation about "bloodletting" and purges. In the past the Soviets have not hesitated to use purges at home and in satellite nations to consolidate power where they wanted it. Stalin himself set the pattern in the years after Lenin's death in 1924.

One of the assumptions about what would happen proved to be wrong. State Department broadcasts over the Voice of America to the Communist countries had emphasized a long period of uncertainty over who would really be Stalin's successor.

Malenkov's appointment as chairman of the Council of Ministers apparently answered that question weeks or months ahead of Washington's guesses. There had been considerable belief that Malenkov, as the ranking man in the Communist party machinery, would have party control while Molotov, as ranking man in the government, would for a time head the Council of Ministers.

What happened instead was a complete shakeup of the government. Not only has Malenkov taken over as council chairman, equivalent to premier, but Marshal Klementi Voroshilov has replaced N. M. Shvernik as the chief of state. Men who were in key Cabinet positions during World War II—but retired several years ago to relative obscurity as deputy chairmen to Stalin—have returned to the front lines of government administration in charge of specific ministries.

It may be weeks before the significance of this shift is fully evaluated. But one possible conclusion is that exercise of real power in the Soviet Union—once handled by Stalin entirely through the Communist party machinery—is now to be managed more fully through the government, with the party concentrating more on problems of political control of the population.

Most experts here have considered Malenkov the man most likely to succeed Stalin. Now that he has gotten the top government job, there is a wait-and-see attitude about how well he uses his position to consolidate his power. The belief is that if he considers purges necessary he will use them. He may not find the need—the record so far shows little challenge to his position since Stalin's death.

Export Of Missouri Rabbits To Ohio Banned

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Ohio sportsmen can no longer obtain Missouri rabbits for stocking purposes, because the Missouri Conservation Commission banned their export Feb. 7.

The commission said the Missouri ban came because rabbits were scarce. It listed the 1951 drought as one of the principle reasons.

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources said the ban virtually closes the door for Ohio importation of cottontails. Other states which sell rabbits for stocking purposes do not have the species native to Ohio.

Malenkov Gives Impression Of Hatred For Western World

(By The Associated Press) Soviet Russia's new boss — Georgi Maximilianovich Malenkov — is a man of action. He showed that in the speed with which he moved into Joseph Stalin's shoes. For years the chubby, beetle-browed man whom Stalin molded into a model Communist plotted to succeed his boss.

There is little doubt that Malenkov figured some time ago that Stalin's final days were nearing and schemed accordingly. When the end came he apparently acted swiftly.

His appointment as chairman of the Council of Ministers, the key government job held by Stalin, means that he has firmly grasped one of the real controls of power in the Kremlin and probably has his hands firmly upon others as well.

Malenkov is a product of the Soviet dictatorship Stalin shaped. Only 51, he has known nothing but communism since early adolescence. All his adult life he has spent as a Communist surrounded by Communists.

Communist teachers and Communist writers have given Malenkov his conception of the Western world and of democracy. These teachings have taught him to be granite-hard, but cautious in his external approach.

The few Western diplomats who have talked to him found him a grim forbidding man who gave one dominant impression — hatred for the Western world.

Rarely seen in public, except on state occasions, Malenkov has seldom been known to relax. Unlike most Russians, who are convivial drinkers and good mixers, Malenkov sips wine and watches the others carouse.

Aping Stalin, he invariably wears the party tunic, buttoned up to the neck, with his trousers tucked in his boots.

His elevation to the prime ministry over the heads of older Bolsheviks did not surprise many observers. His designation last fall as keynote speaker at the 19th party Congress demonstrated clearly that he was recognized as the outstanding figure under Stalin in both party and government affairs.

His speech lambasting the party for "mistakes and shortcomings" showed the elements of a successful bidder for his leader's mantle. The tumultuous reception he received from Congress members — second only to that accorded Stalin — showed the position of power he had attained.

Malenkov was born at Orenburg in the Urals in 1902. He was too young to take part when the Russian Revolution broke out, but at 17 he enlisted in the Red Army, and a year later joined the Communist party.

When only 20, he was assigned the job of political commissar — party tutor and spy — in the Army. In 1925 Stalin got him a job with the Central Committee. He soon became Stalin's personal secretary. In 1937 he was rewarded with a seat on the Central Committee. Malenkov emerged in a leading position in party councils just before World War II when he became one of the secretaries of the Central Committee.

While Stalin ran the war, Malenkov was in virtual charge of party administration and carried on vital war tasks as well.

He directed aircraft production and by 1943 had boosted it to 40,000 planes a year. For this he received the Soviet Union's highest civilian award, Hero of Socialist Labor. In 1946, he became a full member of the Politbureau.

When Malenkov reached his 50th birthday in January, 1952, the Soviet press pulled out all the stops, crying his praises in a manner reminiscent of the fuss made on Stalin's own decade birthdays.

The celebration startled the Western world and probably a good portion of the Communist world as well. To the West it could mean but one thing — the bright boy who grew up politically under Stalin's wing was being prepared for succession to the crown.

the man who for 29 years, ever since the death of Lenin, received first allegiance of the Soviet Union's 200 million people and of the millions of Communists abroad.

The announcement of the funeral time said the ceremonies would end with the placing of the sarcophagus containing Stalin's embalmed body in the Lenin mausoleum. Presumably then Stalin's body will remain exposed, under glass, for public veneration as Lenin's is.

"A monumental building — a Pantheon — is to be built as a memorial to their immortal glory," said the announcement. "The bodies of Lenin and Stalin as well as the remains of other outstanding leaders of the Communist party and the state buried near the Kremlin wall are to be transferred to it."

The Pantheon will be open to the people. The announcement did not say where the Pantheon would be located, but probably it also will be in Red Square.

The miles-long queue of mourners was the chief sign of activity in the black-draped city. All theaters, movie houses and other places of entertainment were shut down.

Solemn music—Chopin's funeral march and somber works of Tsch-aikowsky, Beethoven, Schubert and Schumann—swelled from the Moscow radio. Trucks parked bumper to bumper blocked off entrances to most of the city's central streets. Near the Hall of Columns were blockades of soldiers.

A huge portrait of Stalin, in marshal's uniform and edged in black, hung above the main doors to the Hall of Columns. It was decked with a bough of evergreen to symbolize that his memory would live.

Beneath it, two by two — men, women and children—the endless throng filed slowly and soberly past the bier.

"The dear features of the face, which death had not altered, were familiar to the whole world," said a description of the lying-in-state, broadcast by Tass, the Soviet news agency.

In the vast hall, which features 28 white Corinthian style columns and can accommodate at least 2,000 persons, the red velvet-draped coffin rested on a high platform, surrounded by palms and mountains of flowers and wreaths. Black crepe covered the hall's glittering decorations. The marble columns were hung with red banners showing the crests of the 16 Soviet republics.

Above the coffin was a great red banner, edged with black and bearing the words: "Proletarians of all countries unite."

man of the House Appropriations Committee and a Republican economy spokesman, cautioned against slashing the defense budget on the theory that Stalin's death has lessened the chances of war.

Taber said he still thinks the military budget can be reduced "but not at the cost of adequate preparedness."

Chairman Wiley (R-Wis) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said:

"We can only wait for the results to become apparent in the policies adopted by his successors, and meanwhile remain on guard against any threat of our own security."

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) saw in the new Soviet leadership "a continuation of the Joe Stalin conspiracy."

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) found the selection of Malenkov "not unexpected."

"He appeared to be the strongest man," Fulbright said. "It would indicate the transition was pretty well organized and therefore there would not be any great upheaval. I still think our basic policy will be to be very careful and not make any drastic changes or statements."

Americans ought to quit guessing what the Russians are going to do and "proceed with our program of defense, mutual security, foreign aid and other foreign policies," Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) said.

here as though they were defendants in a Moscow courtroom.

The turn of events completely surprised delegates. Another surprising turn was the sudden departure of Andrei Gromyko, Soviet ambassador to London, from Britain for the United States to take over the delegation until Vishinsky can return from Moscow.

It was reported here that Gromyko had had a visa to come to the United States for about two weeks. This raised conjecture in some minds that the Russians had planned to send Gromyko earlier or had planned to keep him in reserve for such a shakeup as took place today.

Delegates inclined to believe the Russians would take a tougher position in the U. N. pointed out Vishinsky knew how to carry out orders to the fullest and how to be ruthless.

They speculated the Russians had become concerned by reports that the new Eisenhower administration planned a tough line in the U. N. and elsewhere and were moving to meet it.

Some European delegates also conjectured that the appointments announced in Moscow showed there is a struggle for power in-Beria.

They said Malenkov, while apparently holding the inside spot, would have to work cautiously and could not afford to make one mistake or he would risk elimination by a combination of the forces of the other two.

They pointed out also that the appearance of Marshal Georgi Zhukov — first Soviet commander in occupied Germany and a hero in World War II — back in high place as deputy war minister indicated the three aspirants for power were wooing the Army.

Zhukov was put to one side by Stalin after the war.

Vishinsky was grim and sorrowful as he boarded the Liberte. Top-ranking Soviet delegates said they were completely taken by surprise and so was Vishinsky himself.

sia for some time, predicted the speaker, will be composed of Malenkov, Molotov and Beria—with the former two cooperating to keep the latter in check.

Says Rebellion Unlikely

However, he said, despite the friction that always will exist between individuals and organizations in Russia, the men in power there are not so foolish as to throw the country into chaos by their rivalry for leadership. They are very astute men, he said, and the present situation in Russia, though unsettled, will not likely lead to any form of rebellion.

Mr. Fischer said he believed the tension in Russia would be lessened somewhat by the death of Stalin and the succession of Malenkov. This lowering of internal tension, he declared, might be reflected in Russia's future dealing with the West.

But whatever the foreign policy line which Malenkov embarks upon, it will not end in war, he stated.

Russia has been rebuffed at every turn since World War II, he said. In Korea, Berlin, Indo-China, Turkey—everywhere the Communists have been repulsed. Since it is now evident to the Kremlin leaders that they cannot move without incurring opposition, and since the huge armed forces is a constant drain upon Russian economy, the Reds logically may be expected to adopt a more amicable attitude toward the Democratic countries.

Other Highlights of Talk

On other issues, Mr. Fischer declared:

Beria was not approved by Stalin to fill his role because the Secret Police head was a Georgian like himself, and Stalin feared his succession might cause discontent among the Russians who comprise 50 per cent of the population. (The Georgians are one of the minority groups which make up the balance of Russia's masses.)

The Eisenhower administration will employ more effective diplomacy in an effort to settle grievances with the Reds than its predecessor.

Yugoslavia is the most pro-American, anti-Russian country on earth.

The West could never win a war against the combined forces of Russia and Communist China.

The Red Army, implacable enemy of the Soviet Secret Police, will support Malenkov in his battle to assume full control of the country.

With Stalin's death, the quality of leadership in Russia will deteriorate.

The Voice of America has done a good job, despite allegations to the contrary.

A few hours after this action, the Senate's armed services appropriations subcommittee heard Van Fleet testify and this group also voted for a separate inquiry.

Unions, in place of Vassily Kuznetsov.

Anastase Mikoyan, former commissar of foreign trade, now heads the newly-combined Ministries of Foreign and Internal Trade.

Ten other ministries were merged into three.

Those of the automobile and tractor industry, machine and instrument building and the machine tool industry were combined into the Ministry of Machine Building. M. Z. Saburov was relieved of his post as chief of state planning to take over the combined job.

The four ministries of transport machine building, shipbuilding, heavy machine building and construction and road machine building were telescoped into the Ministry of Transport and Heavy Machine Building. The combined post went to V. A. Malishev, former minister of shipbuilding.

The three ministries of electric power stations, electric industry and communications were streamlined into one—the Ministry of Electric Power and Electrical Industry. M. C. Preukhin was named chief.

The changes were announced by the Central Committee of the Communist party, the Council of Ministers and the Presidium.

They also set up a new all-powerful 10-man Presidium of the Central Committee, including Malenkov, Beria, Molotov, Voroshilov, N. S. Khrushchev, Bulganin, Kaganovich, Mikoyan, Saburov and M. G. Perukhin, chief of the chemical industry. The old Presidium elected at the big Communist party Congress last October included 25 members.

Three members of the former Presidium—Shvernik, P. K. Ponomarenko, a former member of the party Secretariat, and Leonid G. Melnikov, secretary of the Ukrainian party, were named alternate members of the Presidium.

Other Presidium members, named in October but not included in the new listing, were Stalin, V. M. Adrianov, Leningrad party secretary; A. V. Aristov of the Chelabinsk party committee; S. P. Ignatiev of the Moscow committee; D. S. Korotchenko from the Ukraine organization; Kuznetsov; Otto Kuusinen, chairman of the Presidium of the Karelo-Finnish Republic; Malishev, the new minister of transport; Nikolai A. Mikhailov, first secretary of the Young Communists League; D. I. Chesnokov, high ranking party philosopher; M. A. Suslov, a secretary of the party's Central Committee; and Matvei Shkiryatov, deputy chairman of the former Control Commission.
